Text Messages

By providing your phone number and signature on the portion of the Patient Consent form titled Consent to receive Phone Calls and Text Messages, you agree that Dermatologists of Central States (DOCS) and its partner practices may contact you via phone call or text message using pre-recorded/artificial voice messages, an automated telephone dialing system, or other automated means.

You understand that such messages may contain marketing information, alerts, information regarding appointments, specials, events and general information about our treatment and products, and/or your protected health information ("PHI") and that you do not have to agree to receive these types of calls or text messages as a condition of receiving products or services from DOCS.

Note: Text messages are not encrypted and are not sent securely, and, accordingly, could result in the disclosure of your personal information, including PHI, to third parties. Do not reply to text messages with any information other than the information that is specifically requested by the text, such as confirming an appointment, as DOCS cannot guarantee the security or confidentiality of information sent via text messaging.

Instructions specific to DOCS program for alerts, recalls, appointment reminders, general healthcare information, and event messages you may receive from 73602
